Does Irish music make you want to dance a jig? Do you wish you could but don't know how? Come to the Sammons Center in Dallas on first Saturdays and see what fun it is!

Every month dancers meet for Irish céilí and set dancing in the beautiful Meadows Hall, twirling around the dance floor to live music with friends of all ages. Not sure how to dance or if you'll be welcome? Don't worry! The evening begins with lessons to help everyone get up to speed. Céilís are a touch of exercise with generous helpings of laughter plus the pure joy that comes from lively dancing in good company. Whether as a couple, single, or with a group of friends, join us!

Location: The Sammons Center for the Arts , 3630 Harry Hines Blvd., on the west side of the Tollway in Dallas. Call 214-520-7788 for recorded driving directions.

Music by: Local traditional Irish musicians during the céilí. Classes use recorded music.

Dances called by: Susan & Michael Harrison

Cost: $10, $8 for SCMA members, $5 for full-time students. Includes the class and céilí. Water provided.

Times: Class 6:45 – 7:45pm; Céilí 8:00 to 10:00pm.

More info: Visit <http://ceili.dragonseye.com>, call 972-377-3669, or join the DFW Irish Ceili Dancers group on Facebook.

‡ Party céilí in December! Enjoy three happy hours of dancing to live music. No class this evening. Get into a festive mood by dressing up a bit and bringing cookies to share!
